Four cars of powder exploded in Scranton morning, completely wrecking the bar mill department, killing one man instantly and seriously injuring twelve others. The concussion was so great that a shock in the house of mirror around, shattering windows in the vicinity of the mill, and awakening the residents of the borough, who rushed in terror from their houses, scantily clad, to learn the cause. When the debris had settled it was found that the Pyne man, Geo. Patterson, had been instantly killed. His body was mangled almost beyond recognition. Wm. Cornelia, an employe who was given work four days ago, was picked up from under the boilers in a dying condition. He died a short soon. The ruin wrought in the mill by the explosion was complete. The building was laid low and all the machinery broken to fragments and scattered in all directions. The force of the explosion must have been terrific, as large pieces of boiler iron were found hundreds of yards from the scene of the disaster. Our piece, weighing at least one ton and pounds, cut its way through the entire mill, and fell on the public road fully five hundred yards distant. The damage done to the mill will exceed $10,000. The cause of the explosion is not yet known, but an investigation is now in progress. Fortunately there were very few men at work at the time, or the list of dead and injured would have been greater. The mill was one of the largest in the city and was the first one to use natural gas.

FOUR CHILDREN CREMATED.

A House Burned Up While the Mother Was on an Errand.

On Cutt, Pa., Jan. 24.—The residence of H. L. Ross, at Penn City, 20 miles north of here, was destroyed by fire this afternoon, and his four children cremated. The mother left the children in the house while she went on an errand, and when she returned the house was in flames. An effort to save the children was made, but failing, as the entrance to the upper floors was cut off by the flames. When the latter were extinguished the charred and blackened trunks of the four children were found in the ruins. The eldest child was 5 years old and the youngest was able to walk. It is supposed that they set fire to the house while playing. The parents are crazed with grief.

Buried in Solid Rock.

London, Jan. 24.—A funeral of a remarkable character is reported from Havres, in the Department of the Upper Seine. M. J. S. Broderick, a well known and wealthy follower of Epicurus. He believed in the transmigration of souls, and on his dying moments gave instructions that no mistake should be made in his burial, and that there should be no religious ceremonies of any kind. FELT FOR MILES.

An Entire Battery of Steel Boilers Explode.

Two Men Killed, While Several Others are Frightfully Injured.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 26.—A battery of four steel boilers at Spang, Chalfant & Co.'s steel and iron works, at Etnaborough, six miles east of Allegheny City, exploded with terrific force at 10:30 o'clock this morning, completely wrecking the bar mill department, killing one man instantly and seriously injuring twelve others. The concussion was so great that a shock in the house of mirror around, shattering windows in the vicinity of the mill, and awakening the residents of the borough, who rushed in terror from their houses, scantily clad, to learn the cause. CHARGED WITH POISONING.

Strong Circumstantial Evidence Developed Against the Chicago Man, Lawrence Krug.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—It is now certain that Lucy Heidelsimer was poisoned. Prof. Haines, of the Rush Medical College, has completed a chemical analysis of her stomach. He found traces of arsenic in every vital part. It was administered in such liberal quantities that the only wonder is that the girl lived as long as she did. Captain Schaack has also ascertained that Lawrence Krug, the girl's betrothed, is being held to await the result of the investigation, lived for a long while with a celebrated chemist in Germany, and there gained an extensive knowledge of the deadly qualities of various poisons. Yesterday Professor Haines began an analysis of the remains of Krug's third wife, which were exhumed for that purpose last Thursday. The officers think they have a strong case of circumstantial evidence against Krug. The inquest on the step-daughter will be resumed this week, and inquiry redoubled in the four other deaths charged against Krug. He has authorized the sale of two houses belonging to him in order to raise money to defend himself in the criminal court.

A MATRIMONIAL LESSON.

How a New Jersey Wife Kept Her Husband at Home.

Boston, N. J., Jan. 23.—Mrs. John Harvey, of Gloucester County, was deserted by her husband a couple of years ago, and she has been trying to get him back by order of Chancery to compel him to allow her alimony. Vice-Chancellor Bird, after hearing the evidence for her husband's desertion, filed an opinion denying her application. He was convinced from that for a long time he suffered with sores and blisters over his body, and only after the sores began to heal, for 14 months did he discover the cause. His wife, he said, had told a neighbor that she inflicted the sores by applying cerdon oil to his clothing, and that her purpose in so doing was to keep him at home nights. She succeeded so well, the vice-chancellor said, that he had to communicate her secret to another woman. The latter at once advised that she told Harvey what his wife had done, and he thereupon deserted her.

Married a Skeleton.

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—The skeleton of the Seventh and Fifteenth Ward Democratic W. J. Coffey, was married to-night to Miss Eva Cartwright, of Norristown, at the residence of the bride's father, Dr. Chapman. The make-up of the nineteen was faultless. His clothes sat well upon him, and would easily fit a heavier man. He must weigh 140 pounds. His legs, arms and trunk had evidently been well-padded, for nothing about the set of his garments would indicate that he did not carry about an average amount of flesh. His mustache and goatee were carefully waxed and combed, and his eye-glass was in position. The lady's face showed full well the skeleton is a decided blonde of about twenty-eight, and of fair appearance, considering the hour hundred and thirty moments gave instructions that no mistake should be made in the burial, and that there should be no religious ceremonies of any kind. The interment took place this afternoon, and within the walls of the New York unknown, unnoticed, steel and masonry.

Toledo, O., Threatened With a Flood.

Toledo, O., Jan. 23.—The ice in the Maumee River opposite Toledo let go about 2 o'clock this morning and carried away about 230 feet of the Union railroad bridge. The bridge proper is founded very soft, but that in the upper river was from twelve to eighteen inches thick, and the bridge withstood the blow well. It has piled up against the Pennsylvania railroad bridge, and there is danger that at least 400 feet of that structure will be wrecked. Below the city the river is shallow, and no damage has been caused. The ice is imbedded in the mud, forming a gorge, and at 9 o'clock the water in the river had raised three feet above the average stage. A dispatch from Turkey Foot Rock, fifteen miles above, says that the ice is piled up in the river 25 feet high and the water is overflowing the bank, doing much damage.

Fire in the Kentucky State-House.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 25.—The State house narrowly escaped destruction last night about eleven o'clock. A fire broke out in the basement of the new wing and the blaze quickly burned through the floor to the auditor's office, but the fire company promptly checked it. And the only loss will be on some paper stored in the basement, valued at $500. Had the fire company been five minutes later papers to the value of thousands of dollars would have been destroyed.

Austria is in Earnest.

Vienna, Jan. 23.—Rules governing the Landsturm, which have just been published, show that nothing except blindness, deafness, dumbness and lameness will exempt men from service, and that Stradza from the age of twenty will be used to fill up the gaps in the regular army and navy reserves. The new rules have rather surprised the country, such sweeping stringent conditions not having been expected.

The Peril of Two Little Girls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 24.—Two little girls were swept through a sewer here, into the Niagara river, and were, with great difficulty, rescued alive.

Miner Killed.

Central City, Ky., Jan. 21.—A miner named Portney, employed in the mines of the Central Iron and Coal Company, was struck by a descending cage last evening and fatally injured. One leg was broken, his head bruised and crushed and internal injuries inflicted. He died this morning.

Jesuits Excepted.

London, Jan. 24.—The Standard says: "It is understood Government Prussia consents to the return of all orders except the Jesuits whom the imperial law expelled. No further steps are proceeding regarding the other points.

Mrs. and Miss Van Zandt Going to Paris.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Mrs. Van Zandt is greeted to-day as saying: "My daughter and I are going to Europe. We shall proceed to Paris and take up our residence there. It is our plan to remain in Paris until a decision is reached in the case of Spies."

Great Land Sales in Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 23.—The past week's business in the U. S. Land Office in this city has been the heaviest for years. For the eight days ending to-night the sales of public lands will be 2,250,000, at the Government price of $1.25 per acre.

A Mad Dog's Capers.

Central City, Ky., Jan. 23.—About two o'clock yesterday a dog belonging to Henry Dressel was suddenly seized with hydrophobia and attacked a little six-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. T. Adcock, inflicting a severe wound. The animal afterward bit several other dogs before it was captured and killed. All the wounded dogs were at once killed by their owners, and the canine population is several short to-day.

Poisoned by Cheese.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 25.—The families of John Belle, Mr. Perry, Mrs. Good and Mrs. Turner, of Jeansville, Pa., have been poisoned by eating cheese.

AN ICY HARBOR.

Over One Hundred Men Reported Lost by the Sudden Breaking Up of Ice.

Thrilling Escapes and Heroic Rescues Related by Survivors—Afloat on a Cake of Ice in Niagara River.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Breaking up of the ice in this end of Lake Erie, yesterday afternoon, brought consternation to many homes in this city. More than the usual number of men were out on the ice, and it was reported early in the evening that over one hundred had perished. So many different routes were taken by the ice fishers that the safety that many did not get home till to-day. Owing to the varied character of men engaged in fishing the full number of missing men can not be learned. A sensational scene was the trip of William Williams and John Clark down Niagara river on a small cake of ice. The men floated down the river as far as the international bridge before Patrick O'Brien and James Hoolihan were able to overtake and rescue them. The cake was not of the most substantial kind, and their escape from the perilous situation is regarded as remarkable. Krug's home is here in Buffalo, and an old fisherman, was one of the last men in. He was as far out as any one, and knew by the motion of the ice in the afternoon that the ice was moving. He soon started and finally succeeded in landing near Bay View, five miles south of here about 10 o'clock at night. Near Rocky Point a number of narrow escapes were witnessed. A fisherman said that on looking behind him, while hurrying to get to shore, he saw a large cake coming across a chasm, fully thirty feet wide. What the appearance of the ice would not say, as he had all he could do to look out for himself. Another said that while a man was standing on a cake of ice with his dog and sled the cake suddenly tipped and the man, dog and sled, slipped into the water and disappeared. He was not seen to come to the surface. Edward Hyland, No. 1 of the life-saving crew, had a thrilling experience. He left the city early in the morning, going to the lake fishing, with his dog and sled. On arriving he recommencing to move, started for shore, but his dog was frightened, and refused to stir a step with the load of fish. Hyland knew he was losing precious moments, but didn't want to lose his dog and fish, and tried every effort to get the animal to move. At this moment the ice beside him cracked and parted, the seam running a long distance each way. Hyland, in a fit of desperation, hesitated. The crack between him and solid shore grew broader. Finally he threw the sled across, and, abandoning the dog to its fate, sprang across the widening chasm, and made his way safely to shore, dragging the sled of fish after him.

A Female Cannoneer.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—A Times special from Fort Worth, Texas, says that Mrs. T. Calhoun and a Mrs. Willey were arrested here on night on a charge of shooting craps. For some time past this part of the State has been flooded with silver dollars. The counterfeits are good for 75 cents a piece, and require a test to detect them. HAULING IN THE NET.

A Memorable Day at the Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Over Three Hundred New Members Received by Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage—An Impressive Sermon by the Eminent Divine.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Over three hundred new members were received at the Brooklyn Tabernacle to-day. In commemoration of this event Dr. Talmage preached the following sermon, choosing for his text the eighth verse of the sixtieth chapter of Isaiah: "Who are these that fly as a cloud, and as the doves to their windows?" He said:

When God would set fast a beautiful thought, he plants it in a tree; when He would put it afloat, He fashions it into a ship; when He would have it glide through the air, He makes it into a bird. There is so many of us a complete fascination in the structure and habits of birds—the blackbird, feasting like a duke of darkness through the sunlight; the meadow lark, with head of fawn and throat of sunset, and breast of gold; the red flamingo, flying over the Southern swamps, like sparks from the forge of the setting sun; the pelican, white and black, morning and night, hanged in the wings—they seem but more of earth than Heaven, ever vacillating between the two.

No wonder that Audubon, with his gun, tramped through all the American forests in search of new specimens. Some naturalists have spent years in finding the track of a bird's claws in the sea sand or mud. There is enough of God's architecture in a sulpe's bill or grouse's foot to confound all the universities. Musicians have, with reeds and lute, tried to catch the sound of the nightingale and the robin. Among the first things that a child notices is a swallow at the eaves, and pictures of Noah's dove with a handful of remains to feed the ravenous chicks of the Ark is full of ecclesiastical allusions.

The birds of the Bible are not dead and stuffed, like those of the museum, but living birds, with fluttering wings and plumage. "Behold the fowls of the air," says Christ. "Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down," exclaims Obadiah. "Gayest thou the goodly wings to the peacock?" says Job. David describes his desolation by saying: "I am like a pelican of the wilderness; I am like an owl of the desert; I watch, and am as a sparrow on the housetop." "Yea, the stork in the heaven knoweth her appointed times; and the turtle and the crane and the swallow observe the time of their coming; but my people know not the judgment of the Lord," says Jeremiah. And in the text Isaiah looks ahead and sees the gathering of many people into Christ's fold, and the cry and it makes him think of a flock of pigeons alighting on their coop, and all at once trying to get in at the window of the coop; he cries out: "Who are those that fly as a cloud and as the doves to their windows?"

This is one of the memorable days of the Brooklyn Tabernacle. On other Sundays we drop the net; to-day we haul it in. On other days we send out the invitations; to-day a King's party; to-day we sit at the banquet. On other days we fight the battle; now we claim victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Ye who have toiled and contributed and prayed for the success of this institution take unto your souls this grand satisfaction of this occasion. To-day men and women, is fulfilled the promise: "Those who sow in tears shall reap in joy." Wake up, O Church of God! and bring garlands and music and let us celebrate our "harvest home."

Oh, this mercy of God! I am told it is an ocean. Then I place on it four swift-sailing crafts, with compass and chart and rudder rigging and skillful navigators, and tell them to launch away and explore and find me the extent of this ocean. That craft puts out in one direction, and sails to the north; this to the east; this to the south; this to the west. They crowd on all their canvas and sail in thousand orange blossom day came up the harbor of Heaven, and was about to them from the beach: "Have you found the shore?" And they all say: "No shore to God's mercy?" Swift angels, disratched from the throne, search every sea across it, for ere million years they fly and fly, but there comes back from their tired wings at the foot of the throne, and cry: "No shore! no shore to God's mercy!"

Mercy! Mercy! I sang it; I pray it; I preach it. Here I find a man bound hand and foot to the devil, but he has the promise of the hammer of God's truth he chains fall off and he is free forever. Mercy! Mercy! Mercy! There is no depth of sin not fathom; there is no height it can not scale; there is no infinity it can not compass.

When persons apply for membership into any society, the question is asked, "Who are they, and where do they come from?" and as this multitude of people present themselves to-day for membership it is right that we should ask of these new comers that come as doves to their windows?" They are captives, whose chains have been broken; they are wanderers who have enlisted for a thirty years' war; they are heirs of God.

They come as doves to the windows, first, because they fly low. The eagle darts up, as if to strike its beak into the sun. There are birds that seem to dwell under the waves of heaven; you see them only as the specks against the sky, so far off that you can not guess the style of their plumage or the shape of their bodies. They are so far away that if the hunter's gun be discharged at them they do not even change their course. Not so with the doves or pigeons. They never take any high range, but keep low by around your roof and slight on the fence, and seem to dislike great altitudes.

So these souls who come to the altar of this church to-day fly low. They ask no great things; they seek an humble place at the feet of Christ; they are not ashamed to be called beggars for mercy; they are willing to get down on their knees, if they can crawl under the table, and to pick up the crumbs of the Gospel provided for dogs; were days when they were proud and pugnacious and inexorable and puffed up; but not now. The highest flier among you could not tempt Mary away from Jesus' feet. Simon, O penitent soul, if thou wouldst enter Heaven. A high look and a proud heart God hates. Fly low. It is a mercy that it is not easy for all. Many will her all the years of thy sin; thy days of youthful wanderings; thy days of manhood transgressions; thy sins—dark, brooding, dreadful sins—against thy soul, against thy Bible, against thy God.

In one of the benevolent institutions at Europe a number of invalids are provided for the new comers have their photographs taken while in rags from their sin and misery, so that they may always have in the parlors a reminder of the degradation from which they were lifted. And the world does something better than a picture of thy former destitution and ragged misery, for it has put it on afflicted God before whom thou comest. Thou therefore! His rags of sin are the fine one hundred and eighty-five thousand Sennacherib's host in a night; the shame of sin. He will judge the world in Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord God Almighty. Fly low.

A thousand years ago an emperor planted a rose bush from which roses are plucked to-day. In the dark ages the robber nests of centuries ago a rose was planted which bloomed in the parlors of to-day. Avoid presumptuous sins, for they are sure to be followed by the terrible consequences. But, thank God, there is no sin so great that it can not be forgiven. Again, these persons who come to-day are like doves on their way to the dove-cote because they fly for shelter. The storm-cloud makes a throne of the tempest; the sea gulls look and grow proud from the storm—their merriest hour seems to be that in which the surf of the sea piles most high. Not so with doves. At the first blow of the northeaster they fly to the coop. Eagle coming in the sky, and the dove seeks cover. Sparks venture on the bosom of the carcass, but dowves at the first sound of the bird of prey speed for shelter from fiery eye and fiery beak and loathsome talon.

So the troubled souls come here for shelter. Every one has a besetting sin; that sin is always after you. The robber watches you when you come out of the bank; sees in what pocket you put the money; notices where you go to dine, and who you sleep, and what kind of a lock you have on your door; so there is some one over on a man's track. It goes with him to the door; it sits on the money safe; it looks over his shoulder while he makes out the bill or ledger; it goes out with him to dinner, it wains home with him at night. As to some dog that you do not want to follow you but persists, you say to it: "Back home with you!" you stone it away and start on. After awhile, casually turning your eye, you find it close after you with a wagging look.

Wherever you go, sin goes; where you stay, sin stays. You have watched the hawk above the barnyard; it sails around and around over the brood of chickens—nearer and nearer, now almost down to the flock, then back again, until at last it drops and seizes the prey. There is a hawk ready to pounce on every one and trying to this reason that these doves come to-day to the window—they want shelter in the grace of God and in Christian associations. "Who are they?" If there be any power in your prayers, let me have them. If there be any virtue in good counsels, give them to me. If there be any thing elevating in Christian associations, let us get their influence. "Who are they?" A swiftest I will dwell. The people shall be wounded soul, no shelter for a bruised spirit.

The dove in the time of the deluge flew north, and it was all water, in which were tossed the carcasses of the dead; there was not the least suggestion that the ark-dove's feet touched was the window of the ark. So the soul that has had comfort under conviction and finds nothing substantial to rest upon flies back to the Master from whom it came, and there is no rest for the dove save the ark.

Substantial comfort will not grow
In native a barren soil;
All we can boast is full and we know,
Is vanity and toil.
But where the Lord has planted grace,
And made His glories known,
There living fruits of heavenly joy are found,
And there alone.

You don't have to search more sad sight that it was in the regular course of nature that your father should expire. Did that comfort you? Has it been a help and never leave you? If that child had lived it might have turned out a curse to you. That

THE HICKMAN COURIER.

WILL THE UNITED STATES GO TO WAR.

The speeches in the United States Senate this week on the Canadian Fishery question sounds decidedly war-like. The trouble between the American and Canadian fishermen has been growing for years and years, and has promised from time to time to involve the United States and England in war. For the past year the Canadians, it is claimed, have been accepting, demanding, and receiving all the privileges in American waters, and denying everything to the American fishermen in Canadian waters. The Canadians have, it is said, pursued this unfriendly policy in such extreme as to offer continued insults to the American flag and to the American authorities. The resolution which passed the United States Senate Monday with but one dissenting vote, is almost a declaration of war upon the part of the United States. It means that England has got to suppress at once and unconditionally the Canadian insults to the United States flag, or that in the event of the refusal of the English Government to recognize the rights of our American fishermen, the President is authorized to cause all business intercourse with Canada, and if it shall reach this point it will be a quasi declaration of war, and will no doubt so result. The great business interests between the United States and Great Britain are so immense and so close, that a war between them, would prove a great calamity to both countries, and these interests are so great, to say nothing of the commonality of the two great English speaking nations, that the CourIER can not now believe that war will be permitted. To us, away down here in Kentucky, this fish question, seems a small matter to have a great war about, that great nations have gone into bloody wars on issues of much less significance. We are opposed to war upon almost any conditions, but a very little spark sometimes cause immense fires. And so with this fish question, it may effect the rights and interests of comparatively very few American citizens, but this great American government is going to see that each and every one of them, however humble, are protected, from the domination or interference of any foreign government. And as much as we are all opposed to war, no matter in what nook or corner of the American Union we may reside, yet our American hearts will swell with pride when the United States Government demands and enforces protection for her citizens any and everywhere, and against any and all foreign Governments.

THE WAR TALK.

There has been so much talk of war in Europe that the general reading public do not give much heed to such newspaper items. There is no doubting, however, that the relations of the leading European powers is strained, and that war is likely to result any day. Happily for the people both in Europe and America, the better thought of this latter great age, is against wars, and forces the powers to submit to arbitration and compromises. Kings and rulers, like individuals in accursing property, are nearly always ambitious to get more, and to hold on to what they have. The rulers of Europe are about in this condition, some of them ambitious to acquire larger domain, and more of them fearful that some they have will be taken from them. The whole of Europe is afraid of Russia and Russian designs, and each afraid of the other combining with Russia.

But the nations most likely to fight are France and Germany. There is an intense, deep-rooted hatred between the German and the French peoples, which not only pertains to the heads of nationality, but goes to the core. Both sides are reported to be collecting large bodies of troops on their frontiers, and a collision may be precipitated at any time. Germany whipped France so easily and quickly sixteen years ago, that on this side of the waters, it looks like foolhardiness for the French to precipitate another war. But France is making gigantic preparations, and has been so preparing for years. Germany shows one weakness, and that is being divided at home, a majority of the German Congress refusing to vote as full an army supplies as the Emperor wants, whereas the French appear united and vote unlimited men and money.

WHEELER'S OMNE CURANT.

CONGRESS ASKED FOR $100,000.

Gen. Wheeler of Ala., the gallant ex-Confederate cavalryman, and present member of Congress, has added further to his eternal fame, by introducing a bill asking Congress to appropriate one hundred thousand dollars for the purpose of boring a hole in the center of the earth, in the interest of science. Gen. Wheeler asserts that, in his opinion, there exists below the surface of the earth, that streams of medical water will be found with the virtue of curing all manner of diseases that the human flesh is heir to, and also that the center of the earth is solid gold. All this sounds like Gen. Wheeler was crazy, and had it bad.

OUR STATE SURPLUS, $37,346

The Auditor's report shows that at the close of the fiscal year June 30, 1885, the total indebtedness of Kentucky was $674,000, while there was at the same time in the sinking fund to pay off that indebtedness $711,346, leaving the State not only out of debt but with assets above its indebtedness amounting to $37,346.

There are Democratic newspapers, as well as Republican, who are continually singing the song of Democratic mismanagement in Kentucky, and while there may have been, and doubtless have been, blunders and mismanagements, yet fair minded men ought to be willing to make fair comparisons, and it appears to us that it ought especially to be true as to Democratic papers in criticising their own party. While the Democrats have a surplus of $37,346 over and above all indebtedness, compare this with some of the States under Republican rule, and decide if you want to transfer Kentucky to another party management.

Massachusetts has a debt of $31,632,886.08; Pennsylvania, $18,082,288; Ohio, $14,258,870; Rhode Island, $1,357,000; Wisconsin, $2,250,000; New Hampshire, $2,908,000; Nebraska, $1,019,267.05; Minnesota, $4,105,000; Michigan, $3,000,000; Kansas, $3,005,500; Iowa, $245,343.19; and thus the same way all through the list of Republican States. The Southern States are all in debt, through Republican misrule and extravagance in them just after the war.

THE GREAT R. R. BILL.

The Inter-State Commerce bill has passed both Houses of Congress by large majorities, and though direful results were predicted as to the ruin of railroad interests, so far there has not been the slightest appearance of a panic in such stocks, nor is there the slightest indication that the operation of any railroad will be interfered with materially. The bill is one that has been demanded by the country for years, in some shape or other, but whether it will accomplish the purpose claimed by its advocates, the equalizing of freight and passenger rates, remains to be seen. In brief, this new law proposes that the President of the United States shall appoint five Railroad Commissioners, to whom shall be referred all questions arising under the law as to railroad freight and passenger charges. The law attempts a system of compelling equality as between long and short hauls, and prevents what is known as "pooling," and rebates. The country at large will scarcely understand the law and its effects until the Commissioners are appointed and the roads are being operated under their construction and interpretation of the law. It is regarded by many as one of the most important laws enacted by the Congress of the United States for many years.

THAT MALPRACTICE CHARGE.

The subject of interest in Washington is the reply of Gen. Boynton, through the Cin. Commercial Gazette, to the charge made by Drs. Hammond and Baxter that Logan died from excitement created by reading Boynton's letter, charging that Logan was untrue.

Gen. Boynton is an ex-Federal soldier, has been a correspondent at Washington ever since the war, and is regarded by all men as a man of unquestioned honesty of purpose and ability in his profession. To cite his disposition, it is remarked that when Secretary Blaine was undicated he wrote to Murat Halstead and told him that he (Boynton) could not conscientiously advocate Blaine and refused to write in his behalf. Halstead thought so highly of the man for his sincerity that he requested him as the head of the Washington bureau, although he, as a fact, never penned or planned a line in support of Blaine.

It is but sort of a man who, though a Republican, has been elected president of the Press Association of Washington, which is largely Democratic and composed of several hundred members, who, in a three column article reviews the sickness of Logan and offers evidence supporting the charge that Drs Hammond and Baxter by malpractice killed Logan.

THE RIGHT TALK.

If the great order of the Knights of Labor will follow the lead of Mr. Powderly they will never have cause to regret it. In a recent letter on the socialistic and anarchists, who have brought the knights into unfavorable notice Mr. Powderly is very emphatic. He says:

I am sorry that the order ever found a foothold in New York, for no good has ever come from large cities which are prolific of whisky and crime. There are many good knights in your city (New York) who regret the unfortunate action, give me the man who reads and thinks instead of the man who drinks. There are more of the latter in a large city than of the former. However, the K. of L. will live, their principles will spread and eventually triumph, but the greatness who stand up as the champions of labor in the presence of thousands of unthinking men and advocate the knife and bullet, fall on the men who flaunt the red flag. They are to vile too respect and too cowardly to uphold the American flag, sanctified by the blood of patriots. They disgrace it every time they go to the polls and vote for monopoly and usury. They are not to be trusted.

—All parties indebted to us by note or account, are kindly requested to settle, as we are in need of funds.

A PARALYZER.

GORMAN'S RETALIATORY RESOLUTION.

The Herald's Ottawa dispatch says the retaliatory measure introduced in the United States Senate by Senator Gorman, regarding the transit of goods destined for Canada through the United States, fell like a boom in the Government circles at the Dominion capital. From conversation with several prominent Government officials, it is learned that the country Senator Gorman represent is pursuing in regard to the transhipments of cargoes is considered to be most arbitrary. It is argued at the Fisheries Department that, if American vessels were permitted to land their fish for shipment by rail to the United States, it would necessitate keeping a large lot of vessels and officers to enforce the customs and fisheries regulations. Against this it was pointed out that there are only seven ports in the maritime provinces from which transhipments by rail could be made. A prominent Conservative stated yesterday that in straining the interpretation of the treaty to its utmost limit, in urging legislation against Canada in the United States that all possibility of extending commercial relations with that country or arranging a reciprocity treaty, had been forever killed.

MASSACHUSETT'S DRUGGIST.

It has frequently been charged that in communities where prohibition prevails the druggists were making rich through selling large lots of bogus prescriptions, and in at least one town strong evidence has cropped out to sustain the charge. In Quincy, Mass., the issue is an license or no license and in order to retain their liberative trade and force the people to permit them to sell liquor the druggists refuse to furnish spirits even on a prescription. Into the breach springs a Mr. Faxon, who has sent a circular to every physician in the town, in which he says: "I shall be pleased to have every physician in the town of Quincy procure, at my expense, a quantity of pure liquors, at a cost not exceeding $75, and use the same among their patients, without charge, when they feel justified in giving a prescription for liquor. I sincerely hope that this plan will be adopted, and thus take out of the druggists' control the perplexing problem with which they now pretend to be wrestling."

A MIGHTY QUIET TIME.

Allen G. Thurman: I challenge history and tradition to show a nation that has been so peaceful and so prosperous as the United States. From the first inauguration of the government, 1783, down to 1887, a period of 101 years, how many years of war have we had? Only nine—but 18, nine years of real war, as that term is generally understood. Two and a half years with Great Britain, in 1812-1815, two and a half years with Mexico, in 1845-1848; and four between ourselves, in 1861-1865. We had a little shindy with Algiers early in this century, and a little row in 1855 with Japan, which is known as the war with France, which was no war at all—nothing but a few reprisals upon the high seas, which neither nation formally declared hostilities. And, in addition to these, our Indian wars. But, when you put them all together, and dignify them all as wars, you will find that we have been at profound peace for more than nine years out of every ten of our national existence.

THE BIG SURPLUS.

PENSION APPROPRIATION WILL EAT IT UP.

The House made a big hole in the surplus to-day, and if it gets a whack at an universal pension bill the Treasury will be entirely relieved of all redundant revenue. Under a suspension of the rules Mr. Matson passed his bill granting pensions to all dependent parents who are now incapacitated for manual labor, and all soldiers who are now objects of charity or in destitute circumstances. The bill applies to all wars, and includes soldiers who served in the Mexican war and afterward in the Confederate army, if it be shown that no disability was contracted in the latter service.

ONLY A HINT.

A delicate exchange puts it softly this way; but we hope our readers will "see it," all the same:

"Newspaper subscribers who are in arrears should bear in mind that a dun is not an impeachment of their integrity, but simply an outcropping of the publisher's necessity. For instance, a thousand men are him from one to four dollars each, and a small amount to each individual, but to him the aggregate is large. Instead of becoming indignant because the editor asks for his honest dues the delinquent subscriber should be grateful to him for waiting so patiently and pay up like a man."

A WAR WITH ENGLAND.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The President to-night held a consultation with Democratic members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Senator Beck, of Kentucky, who is a member of the corresponding committee in the Senate, on prospects of war with Great Britain, growing out of fisheries trouble. The direct provocation of the consultation was the warlike speeches made in the Senate this afternoon during consideration of Senator Frye's fisheries bill.

TO THE VOTERS OF GRAVES, FULTON AND HICKMAN COUNTIES.

Partial friends from the above counties, some weeks since, made calls on me to make the race for State Senator.

I had fully made up my mind to never be a candidate again for any office, being fully convinced that I did not possess the requisites necessary to success, the most potent of which were whiskey and money, and I deemed it a shame on my manhood and an insult to the gentlemen of integrity who had ever supported me, to use such means. All thoughts of office seeking were thus laid to rest, and I took hold of another avocation in which to "earn my bread" and use what energy or ability I might have to benefit and build up my own family, home and people. These flattering calls for the Senate I deemed as much in the way of anything else, and through the Democrat replied in the same strain and declined the honor.

Since that time the number of calls upon me and the character of the callers have forced me to reconsider the matter, and say to the people, do you know whom you call? Do not make any pledges blindly. I am a plain man and do not wish to deceive any. I never have supported the principles as set forth by the Democratic party, granting to all others the right to decide for themselves. In that upon which I believe with the greatest faith, that plank that is strongest in my platform, is one that I am aware is not popular in this district; but it is my principle. It was the faith of my boyhood manhood, and is my young manhood, and the firm conviction of my mature age; and that is to forever oppose the manufacture or sale of all intoxicating liquors for any purpose whatever, and I pray God to speed the right cause.

I would not give up this feeling and be for a kinky, nay, not if it would make me Governor of our proud old State. Now, "if this be treason," drop me. If you can still call me "honest" by sentiments, then understand now that I will accept and, if elected, will decide my whole time and talent to the cause of honest legislation, and for the best welfare of our whole people. After my candid and honest avowal, should some unscrupulous seller of ardent gotten from which to make a Senator—which can easily be done—none will work for his success more cheerfully than

ELIGIBILITY FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

If the Presidency of these United States were to be adjudged according to the standard of eligibility now in vogue for the United States Senate, the race between Senators, in dollar marks, numerals, and ciphers, would stand about as follows:

1.	Leland Stanford, of Cal.	$50,000,000
2.	Henry B. Payne, of Ohio	10,000,000
3.	Joseph E. Brown, of Ga.	12,000,000
4.	George Hearst, of Cal.	10,000,000
5.	Don Cameron, of Penn.	5,000,000
6.	Francis W. Palmer, of Wis.	4,000,000
7.	Thomas M. Bowen of Col.	2,000,000
8.	Philetus Sawyer of Wis.	2,000,000
9.	John Sherman, of Ohio	2,000,000
10.	Jefferson Davis of Miss.	1,750,000
11.	William M. Stewart, of Nev.	1,500,000
12.	Randall L. Gibson, of La.	1,400,000
13.	Johnson N. Camden, W. Va.	1,300,000
14.	John P. Jones, of Nevada	1,250,000
15.	John R. McPherson, N. J.	1,200,000
16.	James B. Eustis, of La.	1,100,000
17.	Francis B. Stockbridge, Mich	1,000,000
18.	Dwight M. Sabin of Minn.	900,000
19.	Preston B. Plumb, of Kan.	800,000
20.	George F. Edmunds, of Mass.	800,000
21.	William Mahone of Virginia	750,000

Of course the figures are arbitrary, but there can be little doubt that the ciphers accurately represent, in seven out of eight cases, the sum total of the qualifications that the gentlemen for the Senate, as well as their possible eligibility for the Presidency.

By the substitution of Wm. M. Stewart for James G. Fair Nevada has lost about $25,000,000 worth of influence in the Senate, while Colorado, with Wm. M. Teller instead of the world-renowned, thirty-day Senator Tabor, is several millions lower in the Senatorial scale. With the defeat of "Wood pulp" Miller, New York drops out of the list of Senators of the golden circle.

HURRAH FOR HEWITT.

[Richmond Register.]

The new revenue law is becoming more popular in the State as the Assessor's returns in the different counties come in. The moonshiner and illicit distiller has to be sworn to by each property holder has done the work, and the increase in the returns, particularly under the heading of "Cash and cash notes" has been marvelous. In the small county of Wood—one alone the increase in this item announced to $350,000. Indeed, we predict that as the full importance of the new law is brought to the front, Abram Stevens Hewitt will be the most popular man in Kentucky. Hurrah for Hewitt for next Auditor.

SHE PREFERRED COFFEE.

[Special to the Courier-Journal.]

NASHVILLE, Jan. 24.—The wife of Joe Rawls, hotel-keeper at Dresden, Tenn., eloped with Henry Coffee, a railroader, who was a boarder at the hotel. Coffee beguiled Rawls into taking a trip to McKenzie Friday and stole his wife. The husband returned yesterday and followed them to Martin, where he lost track of them. Mrs. Rawls is described as pretty and attractive, and Coffee is a married man.

HOW TO RAISE MONEY.

A GOOD PLAN FOR KENTUCKY.

It remained for a Tennessee newspaper, the Forked Deer Blade, published at Jackson, to discover a new way for publishers to make money, and that is by imposing a tariff on titles. It might not be an unwise move on the part of some of Kentucky's prospective legislators to incorporate the idea in our State revenue matters. If all the "Colonels," "Captains," and "Judges," in Kentucky were caused to pay a tax on their titles, it would swell the revenue or thin out the titled gentry. The State tax in such cases might be apportioned somewhat after the plan of the Blade, which is as follows:

"For calling a man "Colonel," when he never commanded even an awkward squad, five cents a word (the item is put low because we expect a big run in this line).

"For calling a man "Judge," when he knows no more about Blackstone than a hog does about Sunday, twenty cents a word (not much business in this line).

"For prefixing "Honorable" to a man's name, when he has done nothing honorable in his life, ten cents a word.

"For the prefix of "Rev." when the party is no more entitled to reverence than a horse thief, twenty cents a word.

"If "Doctor" is added, fifty cents a word (not much business).

"For calling a business man "a live, progressive merchant," when he never spent a dollar except for his own benefit, one cent a word; if "enterprising" is added, three quarters of a cent a word; if "popular," half a cent (lots of customers).

"When we are called upon to puff a landlord, one whose house cost $3,000 and he has it assessed at $6,000 and has it rented out at $500 a year, one quarter of a cent a line; if "public spirited" is used, twenty five cents a line; if "generous" is added, fifty cents; addenda corresponding reductions will be made. If permitted to add the word "hog" these puffs will be free.

"For calling a man "a leading and influential citizen," when he is the reverse, as we are sometimes called upon to do five cents a word, cash in advance.

"For calling a young fellow "a promising young man, with a bright future before him," when the young man spends his time loafing on the streets, in smoking cigarettes and retailing small gossip, we have been unable to fix the price, and will refuse all business until it can.

"Special rates, according to the mental caliber of the man and his capacity for evil will be made with politicians.

"We can get a large and lucrative business in calling mediocre men "alleged statesmen," "eloquent speakers," "great statesmen," "men of note," "rising young men," payment for such puffs must invariably be made in advance."

"Candidates for office should always pay before election. The final grant seem are apt to forget these little things after the election is over.

We are sometimes called upon to say that a man is "an elegant gentleman," "a literary man," "a favorite in society," when we know that he is the reverse. Except when large contracts are taken, the charge for this kind of work will be the same as for calling a lawyer without a brief "a legal light."

How much longer can war between France and Germany be averted? is the question that puzzles the observer of foreign affairs. France is preparing for a struggle, and Bismarck has taken extreme measures to place the German army in readiness for a mighty conflict. When will the train be fired?

—The big-souled and big bodied John Kemp, of Clinton, is a card in this week's COURIER, lays down his ultimatum as to his candidacy for State Senator. There is no mistaking his position as to whisky, and no doubt he will be equally emphatic in declaring his choice for United States Senator, State revenue reform, county labor, internal improvements and developments by the State, and other questions, which will enter the race. He is a good man, and we suppose he may be considered a candidate.

—The long continued "headlocks" in Indiana and New Jersey, is a constant reminder that the election of United States Senators should be taken from Legislative assemblies and given to the people. Such scenes are a disgrace to popular government.

—One Ben Smalley, whose real name is said to be S. W. Benton, and who is charged with various robberies at and about Jonesboro, Illinois, was arrested in Hickman, Friday last, by Marshal Wilburn; and on Sunday turned over to an Illinois Sheriff, who conveyed him to that State for trial. Smalley has been operating in and about the saw mills below Hickman for several years, and Illinois officers have several times before visited this section in hunt for him, but each time he eluded their vigilance and escaped. The Illinois officers finally wired on the case to Marshal Wilburn's hands, and Wilburn never lets a trail get too cold to scent the track, and so on last Friday, he learned that Smalley was in town, and after some skillful maneuvering succeeded in capturing him, and immediately telegraphed the facts to Jonesboro. The man Smalley, or Benton, is charged with being one of a gang of robbers that infested Southern Illinois several years ago, stealing horses, money, wagons, wheat from the farms, &c, &c. The gang defied the officers for a long time, robbing and pillaging the country indiscriminate'y and nightly. The officers after so long a time got on to the guilty parties, sent some of them to the penitentiary, and among the number was an uncle and two brothers of this man Smalley. It is said that exactly the same evidence will be introduced against him as a member of the robber gang, as convicted the others.

A Gift for All.

In order to give all a chance to test it, and thus be convinced of its wonderful curative powers, Dr Kings New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, will be, for a limited time, given away. This offer is not only liberal, but shows unbounded faith in the merits of this great remedy. All who suffer from Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of Throat, Chest, or Lungs are especially requested to call at C. A. Holcombe's Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle Free. Large Bottles $1

—The Hickman Bank has proven to be a splendid financial success, which is doubtless attributable to the good management of its directors, and its cashier, Mr. R. L. Alexander, and the assistant cashier, W. C. Johnson. Mr. Alexander came here only a year ago, organized the bank, and during his residence and business management of the bank has proven himself a safe, prudent, reliable and accommodating financier, and less won and is holding a fast hold upon the confidence of the bank's depositors and dependents. The success of the bank also proves the great need of such an institution in Hickman, and the business men and citizens generally should give it their patronage and encouragement.

Restores After Youth.

Mrs Phebe Chesley, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story of the way in which a woman of her 70 years of age, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years, could not dress herself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having restored my youth and removed completely all disease and pain." Try a bottle, only 50c at C. A. Holcombe's Drug Store.

—Mr. W. W. Webster, an old and worthy Democratic farmer of this county, is being urged to make the race to represent Hickman and Fulton counties in the next State Legislature. Mr. Webster is well qualified, and always ready to give a reason for the faith that is in him, and will no doubt make a formidable race should he enter the field. Our reporter, also, learns that influences in Graves county are desirous for Mr. Webster to make the race for State Senator. One thing the COURIER suggests to candidates for Representatives and Senator, and that is they agree for the Democratic party to select a nominee and plant him upon a Democratic party platform, and thus avoid a mere personal race.

A STARTLING story comes from Lansing, Mich., gathered from a Legislative report by the House Judiciary Committee. It is charged that young girls have been persuaded to leave their homes in various cities by the offer of large wages in the lumber regions of the upper Peninsula of Michigan. Once there, they are forced to lead lives of shame, and when they attempt to flee from their persecutors are hunted down with dogs. Two measures for the relief of these miserable creatures and the punishment of those responsible for their condition are pending before the Legislature.

—One of the most elegant entertainments ever seen in Hickman, was the ball given by, the young gentlemen at the opera house, last Tuesday night. Great preparations were made for the interesting occasion and most satisfactorily concluded. Great expectations were indulged by the young people of enjoyment, which it is pleasant to say, were more than realized.

The dancing began at 8:30 o'clock, to the nice music of Smith's Orchestra. Many married ladies and gentlemen gave countenance thus to himself. His character as well as the single ones by their presence and remembered the days when they were young, some of them staying until 1:30 o'clock, when the closed closed. Much credit and many thanks are given to the gentlemen for their zeal and skill in getting up so pleasant a party, and the young folks look eagerly forward to similar occasions. Following is a list of participants as well as can be remembered.

—The spelling match was the occasion of universal excitement, on last Friday night. The spelling was kept up with unabated interest for several hours, and during the price of spelling books will advance and would advise dealers to invest largely. The prize is a handsome cake of toilet soap, for each, and was won by Mrs. Smallwood, after a severe contest. We hope, but will never know, that the cake was the last. We understand the occasion will be repeated. Mr. Dick Moore received the handy piece on pium meat in the most graceful manner:

A man can smile,
And a man can sigh,
But a man can't kiss a man and call it pie.

He can throw a horse in a wrestle for a dime,
And he can't kiss a man on a dare or a bet,
And he don't think a man an unsightly beast—
Of course he don't—not a bit.

PARIS, Jan. 24.—The statement published by the London News this morning, to the effect that there is extreme danger of war between France and Germany, is officially denied by the French Government, who declare that no military movements have occurred on the French frontier which would justify a renounstrance being made by Germany.

JOHN W. WINGATE DEAD

John W. Wingate, ex-County Judge died, in this county at the residence of Mr John A. Wilson, on Friday last, of a congestive chill. The deceased was about 70 years of age, and had been a resident of this county for more than forty years, and for many years was prominently identified with the public affairs of the county of Fulton and town of Hickman. In 1844 he was the editor and publisher of the Kentucky Hunter a newspaper then published at this place and in after years had charge of the Commercial Signalard, the News Letter, and Hickman Argus, each papers of influence, in their day. The Hickman Argus was destroyed by fire in February, 1868, which ended Judge Wingate's newspaper life. In 1870 he was elected County Judge, and, for the most part, made a most excellent and capable officer. As a newspaper writer Judge Wingate was not ready quite, nor versatile, but was correct, painstaking and sensible and within a man of very few peers, reading and intelligence. He was a gentleman in his friendships, honest in his dealings with his fellows so far as he was able, honest even in his prejudices and likes, despising every appearance of sham and hypocrisy and always, or more just to himself than to others. His character was peculiar, eccentric, isolated and somewhat unhappy. Ever or himself born under an unlucky star the victim of continued ill-occurring circumstances disappointments brought a perfect volume of fate that perverted the noblest aspirations and caused them to smother in blighted hopes. He has been an old friend of mine for many years and there are few of us who know Hickman in the past who will not miss him and who will not drop a kindly tear to his memory, putting the seal of a good life upon a pure life and praying God for mercy and blessing on his departed soul.

PRESIDENT MONROE'S PROPERTY.

A descendant of President Monroe has written to the Washington Post denying the published statement that Monroe became overwhelmed with debt and died in New York so utterly penniless that he was buried in poverty. He says that his distinguished ancestor left a large estate, amounting among his many investments to one St. Louis property worth $40,000, as records show.

A GREAT CAUSE OF MANLY MISERY the Loss of MANHOOD

A Lecture on the Nature Treatment and Radical Cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhœa, caused by Self Abuse, Impotency, Nervousness, Debility and Impediments to marriage generally. Exemption, Sexual Decay and Errs. Wonderful Physical Inquiry by ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self abuse may be effectually removed without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings or cordials, pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual by which every sufferer no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

The Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.
